

John Chow's trip to Bali, May 2005 Part 6

The Pelontaran 5 June 2005

This photo page follows that one in Celug Agung Hotel in Lovina.

After the course finished, I gave Mohammad Pak Sudi's handphone number and advised him to look Pak Sudi up. That, he did. I met him by chance in Kuta - coincidentally, just the day before, he was eating at the same restaurant I was eating at. I saw him passing the restaurant and I called out after him. I then shifted to his hotel, and met up with Pak Sudi again.

Pak Sudi brought us to his group practice at Petitenget Temple. He has a large group of students. Pak Sudi was so hospitable and kind. He is a very open teacher. He allowed us to join his group practice, and at the end, he called us up for pelontaran. Wow! He must have read our thoughts and deeply felt desire to be tested. At least I really and truly wanted the pelontaran.

Mohammad was first to be tested. He was instructed to sit down cross-legged on the beach, and concentrated on Gajah Madah. Then a whole lot of attackers charged at him and fell over. That was awesome! Then it was my turn. I could understand Pak Sudi encouraging his students not to be afraid and to have faith in the deities that they will be alright if they attack me. He said I would be using Gajah Madah. But I am more familiar with Brahma Gni, so I used that instead, and did not tell anybody. The attackers charged and they fell.

Then Pak Sudi wanted to demonstrate telepathy and mind control. He asked Mohammad and I and a few others to sit in front of one of his senior students. But because my Indonesian was not that proficient, I did not understand that it was a demonstration of telepathy and mind control. All I understood was we were to relax. Well, I did, or tried to. The rest must have relaxed. Mohammad certainly must have because he did what the senior student suggested. I did nothing! I just sat there cross-legged. After the telepathy and mind control session was over, I was told I must relax and not resist the senior student. I must relax and lie down. Oh, ..... well that is language problem. I didn't know it was supposed to be a demonstration of telepathy and mind control.

After the whole session was over, when we were about to leave, one student came to Pak Sudi and asked for healing. He indicated he is not well and the energy is still inside him. Pak Sudi asked him to lie down and did healing for him for quiet a while. then when we reached the motorbikes, he was talking to Mohammad, and we found out he is Pak Sudi's son. I seized the opportunity to interview him. I asked him what he felt. He said a bolt of energy struck and entered him and he felt pain and fire n his body. Even after the initial healing, he still feels hot inside his body, and that is why he asked Pak Sudi to heal him. Oh, ..... now I know. I used Brahma Gni (Fire of Brahma) which had entered his body. I am happy to know that he volunteered the information, because I did not tell anybody I used the Fire of Brahma.

Below are the photos we took of the Petitenget Temple, llatihan and pelontaran on 5 june 2005.

20 August 2005

Written by John Chow, a practitioner of Chinese medicine, acupuncturist, masseur, healer and teacher of martial arts and spiritual paths.

Copyright:-

No part of this article can be used, quoted, copied in any form without the permission from the author.

For further information on this article, please contact John Chow at vajra\_master@yahoo.com

John Chow with Pak Sudi at the Petitenget Temple in Seminyak

John Chow with Mohammad and president of the YB group at Seminyak

Some of Pak Sudi's students sitting on the beach in front of the Petitenget Temple in Seminyak.

The following photos show Pak Sudi giving healing to his son who was still affected by the Fire of Brahma that John Chow used.

